

The Bull

Tuesday, April 22, 1986

George Washington Mother's Weekly News Magazine

Vol. 00 No. 1

Senior Memories...

by IMA OUTTAHERE

When the last four years of Mary Washington College are written up in the history books, dubious events and personalities will be revealed and credited for their outstanding contributions to MWC's reputation for conviviality and society as a whole.

As Chris Zavrel told us earlier in the year, different dorms have different images and therefore attract people of distinct character. Perhaps it will be easier to discuss the "outrageous acts and everyday rebellions" of our infamous seniors by relating them to their various habitats.

Although the old adage is "age before beauty," it is apropos of this article to begin with Jefferson Dorm because, while it is home to some of the more comely scholars of MWC, it is also the humble abode of more four-years-plus students than any other dorm. Although Frank Gilmore is history, among those who are still with us, or those who shall remain are Danny Rice, Dave Black, Karen McKenna and Charles Bennett.

In the history books, however, it is the more memorable dorm parties that will be chronicled; the dorm parties that were so out-of-hand that practically the whole dorm was put on probation afterwards. In essence, Jefferson speaks for itself.

In contrast, there is Mercer, poor Mercer! The dorm that Chris Woodward worked so hard to guide and defend. And now, Mercer is going coed, and its reputation will never be the same.

Speaking of reputations, Peter LaMarca doesn't live here anymore, but Marshall Hall perseveres. With scrupulous characters like Doug Miller, Henry Talavera and David Quick on first floor, and the virtuous basement guys, better known as the "Aids Brigade," including Cary Maddy, Don Eckenrode and Pat Steenhoek lurking below, how could Marshall go wrong?

Marshall not only has the Grill on the Hill, but it is also home to a would-be politician, an unnamed cartoon character and a potential opera singer.

The transition from opera singer to Bushnell is an awkward, but not unlikely one. It is highly probable that at least one has climbed in the basement window in the last four years. Bushnell is comprised of some die-hard residents whose perpetual

See SENIORS, page 4.

U.S. Wins Sidra Bowl

by DONISIE

The U.S. defeated Libya, 6-0 in the Second Annual Sidra Bowl. This was the second meeting between these two teams. The First ended in a 2-0 win for the U.S.

In their latest game, the U.S. scored four patrol boats and two radar sites for a 6-0 victory. The U.S., who scored early, were never threatened.

The upset-minded Libyans continually went for the "long bomb," but were unable to connect. U.S. Coach Ronald Reagan noted after the game, "I hope this taught Khadafy a lesson. The Sidra Bowl is not his private practice field and should be open to the public."

Libyan Coach Mummar Khadafy allegedly claimed the international practice field for his own. The League Commissioner Mighty Yaweh refused to get involved. The commissioner is currently tied up in an anti-trust suit filed by a secular cult which was unnamed at this time.

Nothing seems to be resolved and these two teams seem destined to meet again. The U.S. have too much offense for the upstart Libyans. Take the safe bet; take the U.S. by ten.

Epidemic Strikes MWC

by YNGWIE MALMSTEEN

New in a series of epidemics to hit MWC, and considered the most serious by Mongolian scientists, Collegiate Alcoholic Protrusion Syndrome, or more commonly known as CAPS, has found a niche in our dear school.

Researchers have not been able to isolate the virus, thus indicating that this disease is very elusive (or that the researchers are a bunch of retarded morons!), but some of the warning signs include: height reduction, sense-of-humor reduction (to about an 8th grade level), and severe character disintegration, which could result in losing elections for SA president.

Although the Paraguayan-Ugandan Knowledgeable Elf Society

Latest victim afflicted with the mysterious virus CAPS, John Kennedy Agnew

(PUKES) insists that there's no cause for alarm, educated consumers should be aware of the symptoms: if you regularly feel as though you've inhaled a fifth of "Two Fingers" tequila, passed-out in someone else's living room and woke up with metallic cap-like growths on your eyes, nose and mouth, please contact your physician immediately.

A very controversial ointment introduced by the Young Alumni Commission on Karakul (YACK), which closely resembles lime jello, has been documented as successfully treating the virus. Specially sealed packages are being distributed throughout Asia Minor and Patagonia (that's in Southern Argentina for you non-geography majors) with the following directions: "Apply liberally between toes and on feet, in shoes or socks or areas subject to infection. Daily bathing and careful drying, followed by application of this gel, should be a part of your hygiene program to help prevent recurrence of CAPS."

S.A. Turns Back On Student Body

Due to a lack of pats-on-the back received for jobs well done, the Student Association has cancelled service to the students.

It's Love Connection

by U. CANDOIT

Challenge to excel [or excell for some]—the motto of Marshall Hall: religiously followed by each and every resident, producing the finest scholars, leaders and athletes ever to ascend that MWC petite montagne, has independently expanded its campaign in an attempt to raise student messages delivered to you by cupid and composed by that special someone watching you from afar?—and it ended with one screw after another in the pub. Somewhere in between, to ensure complete complacency of the student body, Marshall devised a questionnaire—not one of those types that decide the future of food services at Seacobeck or cam-

Two satisfied customers of the Marshall Hall computer dating service, Scotty Talbott and Erik Dahlseid, display the rewards an investment of one dollar can bring.

grade point averages campus-wide.

As Joe Mancuso, resident director for Marshall Dorm, stated, "An atmosphere producing an outlet for student energy is needed; what we need to do is get mates for these kids!"

Thus the wheels began turning in Mancuso's head and before long, Marshall found its destiny to be in the match-making business.

It all began with the "Secret Admirer Mixer"—remember those provocative little heart-shaped pus visitation preferences...no, this one was much more notable.

The dating service questionnaire completed by guys and girls alike to produce a list of the ten most compatible companions on campus was, as Mancuso admitted, "our most rewarding endeavor to date. Love certainly is in the air."

The success of this campaign will be tabulated by Mortar Board and announced to the student body early in the Fall, 1986 semester by Dr. Ruth.

Inside: News

Lame duck editor, Susan Loyd, was caught in the Bullet office with a Bullet columnist by college police April 12 after Spring Formal. For details, ask her date.

People

Framar Bitches status:

1. Two graduating
2. One attending grad school
3. Three pregnant
4. Six unemployed
5. The rest are engaged

Sports

The muscular Shawn Carson dazzled opponents this past weekend as the J.V. rugby team trounced the local senior citizens team.

Editorial

MRS.

We at The Bull feel it is time to bring tradition back to MWC. In keeping with the feminine image that the school has struggled to earn throughout the years, we urge the administration to revive the "MRS" degree program.

In recent years, academic and social programming has turned its back on basic necessities of life. With an increase in co-ed living here at MWC, women can finally focus on what is important in life: waiting on men.

When an MWC man has ring-around-the-collar, he shouldn't have to run across campus to the nearest female dorm. Now, he can go to the next floor, so a lucky female can wash his shirt and perhaps his neck, if need be.

Rather than ordering pizza on the average of four times a week, a male student should be able to eat a homemade meal cooked by one of his female friends.

If a male student discovers on short notice that his parents are coming to visit, a MWC woman should be available to clean his room.

If a button needs sewing on or pants need hemming, MWC guys don't have to wait for the weekend so that Mom can do it. They, again, just run to the nearest female.

We at The Bull support the "MRS" Degree program and say bring Phyllis Schaffly morality back to MWC. (Gloria who?)

Freshman Bitches

To the Bull Staff:

Wow! I'm proud to say I've survived my first year at college. Being a freshman, I can truly say I'm happy this year is almost over. Speaking for the majority of freshmen, we are tired of being ranked on. Whether it be for tradition or good time's sake, I personally get sick of the ridicule aimed at freshmen. Okay, I admit that I lack the maturity level of a sacred UPPERCLASSMAN, but hey, the age difference isn't that great.

Number one item on my hate list is "male abuse." Being that "typical freshman girl," I went through the stage where I thought an MWC male was actually interested in me. Luckily, that off-the-wall phase didn't last long, but it wasn't short enough. Somehow, I fell for the Mary Washington upperclass male's line, "I really like you, wanna' get together later tonight at my place?" Although the variations on this line may be quite creative, the message remains the same.

After knowing a guy for five minutes tops, I have wised up, realizing most MWC men are not interested in that charming personality of yours. Only a freshman girl could get taken for a ride by so many one-minded egotistical men, right? We are gullible on occasion, I confess.

While on the subject of MWC males and their abusive ways...I pose two questions. Ponder the thought, please...Why is it that guys don't dance at the Pub? They just prop themselves up against the railing and eye girls dancing together. I ask these silly questions only with the excuse, "Hey, I have a right to ask stupid questions, I AM only a freshman."

And question number two...Why is it that any form of campus PDA (Public Display of Affection) is limited to only those couples who are planning marriage? I mean, guys here can get pretty friendly behind closed doors, but step outside and you might as well be on brother-sister terms. Maybe next year when I am no longer a freshman will I know the answer to these questions of galactic importance.

Number two freshman complaint—drinking (or lack of, rather). I've partaken in the unpleasurable experience of getting booted from the pub for underage drinking. I have served my time in Dean Beck's haven discussing the evils of underage drinking and may conclude: Not being able to drink (publicly) stinks!! So we can't consume alcoholic beverages in public places, don't rub it in our faces.

So many social activities seem to outlaw freshmen (like Halloween's when we could only mingle with our other immature freshmen colleagues). I know there is a reason behind this, but I STILL DON'T LIKE IT! A more current event was the Custis Kegger, where underage drinkers, namely freshmen, were discouraged, disinvented, whatever from attending an MWC social activity because of their inability to consume.

Another freshman dilemma which I have first-hand experience with is that good ole' "Freshmen 15." With a little help from my friends Mr. Seacobeck, Mr. Itza Pizza and Mr. Milwaukee's Best, I admit to putting away a little extra poundage. But "bigger is better," right guys? I testify that this freshman dorm where I reside keeps Itza Pizza and our basement's Lance machine in business. (Sales tip for any business majors and/or entrepreneurs: Open a 7-11 in the middle of Ball Circle...business would be booming!) But is this "Freshmen 15" a surprise? While practically every other

See BITCH, page 4

Senior Finds Employment

by LIRPA SPOOTS

Senior and lame duck associate editor Laura M. Mason called a press conference early this week to inform reporters of her new career plans. It seems that Mason has signed a contract with the popular Solid Gold dancers and will begin "slinking" early this summer.

Mason decided to change her goals for the future when she realized that there really was truth to the old wives' tale that there's not much to do with an English major. "I wanted a career that let me use my body as well as my mind," Mason said. "I think there's too much emphasis on intelligence these days."

The ex-Bullet staff member owes a lot to her editorial position, since she was first discovered because of it. Undercover Solid Gold scouts saw Mason prancing away in the wee hours of the night in the Bullet office to the tunes of Madonna and Cyndi Lauper. "When I saw her moves, I just knew I had to have her," said scout Joe Mancuso. "She's got some of the most slimy, disgusting dance motions I've ever seen...She's perfect!"

Mason will be available to sign autographs on Sunday, April 27 in Framar. Special full-length photos will be on sale by the Laura Mason Fan Club in Madison Hall.

Laura M. Mason, always on her toes.

The Bull

Editor-in-Chief.....April D. Stoops
Associate Editor.....Donna Craig
News Editor.....Kirsten Brown
Features Editor.....Becky Schiek
Sports Editor.....Kim Lancaster
Photography Editor.....Andrea Adkisson
Production Managers.....Teresa Curtis and Nancy Erps
Business Manager.....Jodi Dogoloff

Production Staff

Chris Mazzatenta and Don Zdanczewicz

The Bull is published every Tuesday during the regular season of the college. The Board of Publications and Broadcasting acts as publisher. The Bull is printed in the offices of the Free Lance Star.

Editorial and business offices are located in Lee Hall, room 303, extension 4393. Deadline for letters to the editor is the Thursday prior to the publication date.

Inquiries may be directed to Box 1115, College Station, Fredericksburg, VA 22402, or to the Editor.

Lame duck Honor Council President Janet Hall was seen with a mysterious, headless senior whose pants were around his ankles.

Save the Rats

To the Editor:

I would like to call to your attention the morbid and sadistic murders of our lovely campus rodents. These friendly creatures once roamed freely throughout our numerous residence halls and were welcome nocturnal visitors to our bedsides. Most were cherished pets and accompanied their owners to Seacobeck where they dined peacefully with other students. They lived quietly among the student body until this past week, when they were cruelly forced from their homes by exterminators. Those who escaped had to seek asylum in wooded areas. Those who were less fortunate were brutally clubbed to death.

A full investigation has been ordered by the Humane Society and Green Peace.

Further outrages such as this will not be tolerated. If the administration tries such an act again, direct action will be taken by the many campus organizations dedicated to the preservation of our wildlife.

Signed,
A distressed reader

ELS Anyone?

To the editor:

I am writing this letter in response to the English Department here at MWC. Something has got to be done about it.

I always wondered something about Dan Dervin. Isn't it a bit uncomfortable to wear socks with toe thongs? And what about the bike he rides? That seat has got to be torture.

What about Ms. Carol Manning? She's a good professor if you can understand the difference between the way she pronounces "all" and "oil." Speaking of accents, Marjorie Collins has a neat one, but her classes are as enlivening as oatmeal. I've also wondered about Sidney

Mitchell and what animals and plants he associates with students in his classes so he can remember their names.

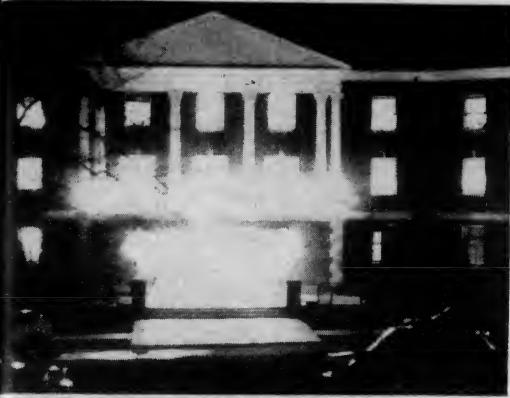

The worst one is Ramen Singh. All the other professors are dying to teach his classes since they hardly ever meet. I say let them; no one ever learns anything in his classes anyway. And, rumor has it that he likes to ask female members of his classes out on less than innocent intentions.

If these people are responsible for the education of today's youth, it's no wonder so many college graduates are unemployed.

Signed,
Sicka English

Grill Ends in a Blast

by YDOBON

Marshall Hall emits radiation after microwave malfunctions.

After microwaving over 500 hamburgers for Marshall's "Grill on the Hill," the dorm's new microwave malfunctioned, sending huge bursts of radiation all over campus.

According to witnesses, people participating in the annual bar-b-q were already too fried to notice anything. The rest of the campus, however, is still experiencing radioactive aftereffects.

The residence hall's director, Joe Mancuso, was quoted as saying, "That's the last time I ever let these kids talk me into anything!"

After five years of fervorous petitioning, Marshall finally convinced Mancuso that they needed a microwave oven, and this past week the 600-watt little beauty arrived at the bottom of The Hill.

According to residents, the microwave is incapable of cooking large items such as hotdogs, potatoes, and turkeys, but it does cook a mean bag of popcorn in a record time of only 30 minutes. It will also warm a pop tart in just 15 minutes, and it will melt ice quicker than a conventional oven.

The malfunction occurred when several Marshall residents tried to put two dozen frozen hamburgers into the microwave in order to get them ready to grill. Other residents involved in the cook-out saw this brainstorm of an idea in action and decided to follow their example.

Before anyone knew what was going on, over 500 patties of frozen beef had been thawed, and Marshall's little microwave couldn't handle the pressure. "It just kind of blew up," said one observer. "It was actually pretty neat."

Not many people even noticed the microwave malfunction while it was occurring, though many experienced strange aftereffects the next day, (though no one would comment on them).

In summation, Marshall resident Anne Lewis commented, "I'm glad that little bugger blew up. I think all the radiation made the band sound better."

In Case You Didn't Know...

*Kramer is leaving next year because he got someone in trouble. Guess Who?

*Stephanie I used all her vaseline up this past weekend. Ask her how and why.

*Julio is a closet alcoholic and has a $125 week cocaine habit.

*Leslie likes playing sports that use very long sticks.

*President Anderson was the stunt double for the Stay Fresh Marshmellow Man in the movie "Ghostbusters".

*Michelle is forming her own basketball team, presently she is working on the bench.

*Susan has a pet pig that squeeeellss!!!.

*Gloria Steinem is really a man.

*Y'All, Traci is not really from Northern Virginia.

*The two lovely tans in Marshall Hall are the result of a daily bath in Bronzing Lotion.

*Johnny B's cheek-to-cheek smile is the result of wearing too tight a pair of underwear.

*Only 25 seniors have jobs after graduation.

*Cats don't always land on their feet, sometimes their head, back, and ass.

*Itza Pizza uses cat nip as a special spice in their sauce.

*Karen's best friend is a trash can full of M & M's.

*The biblical meaning of the name "Tina" is Tina Inhales Nicotine All the time.

*Karen Clickener is the sole reason for AT&T's existence.

*Susan Holiday has no eyebrows.

*Michelle wants a little baby named "Manute".

*Mark Hilldrup's sex education class has been closed due a lack of interest.

*R. Singh is here filling the MWC Minority Hiring Quota.

*Today is the tomorrow that you thought of yesterday.

*In order to compete with the Twilight Motel, the Health Center will be leasing out rooms for $5 per hour.

*Harry Skinker's haircut is the product of a little dab of jelly and a little dab of mousse.

*Initials T.G. and L.M. have hips that resemble the continental divide.

*Professor Z's brand of deodorant consists of not taking a shower for 3 days.

*Speaking of M & M's-did you know that the little decal on each candy will float off when placed its placed in water.

*One pub manager has never had a date on this campus.

*Bruce Loving carries a stadium cup with him at all times because he has a loose bladder.

*Lisa E wears Jams that were once used as table cloths at Pizza Hut.

Bullet Seeks New Financial Sources

by DOKIE ZDANCEWICZ

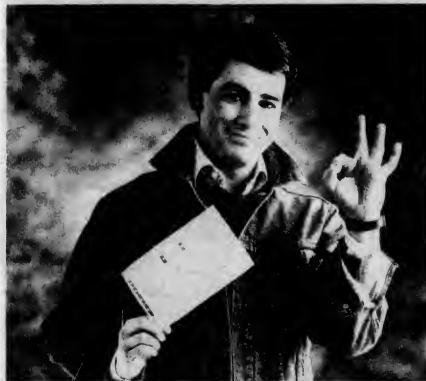

After falling on hard times and being on the edge of financial ruin this past year, The Bullet has decided to pursue other courses of income. This week The Bullet previews what it hopes to be a profitable future for the paper: its all-new BLACKMAIL SECTION.

Inspired by next year's faculty advisor Dick Palmieri, the BLACKMAIL SECTION will print at least one revealing or embarrassing picture of someone on campus...only the face will not be printed. This individual would be forced to pay an amount of money to be printed. This individual would be forced to pay an amount of money to be determined at a later date. If this is not done, the name of the person, the other students involved, and all the sordid details will be revealed.

Lame duck columnist caught with his pants down.

BE A U.S. REGISTERED MALE

If you're within 30 days of your 21st birthday, you can register with Slim's Select Services at the The Bee Dive. It only takes five minutes for training. And don't worry there hasn't been any AIDS cases since March. The Man just needs your name in case there's ever a run on the clients.

Slim's Select Services.
It's quick. It's easy.
And it's lucrative.

A public service of The Bull.

Classified

FOR SALE

MADISON HALL

Due to the mounting costs associated with recent renovations taken place in Madison Hall and the college's lack of available funds to meet these debts, President Anderson has been forced to place the residence hall on the open market. All bids can be directed to Scott Kaplan, head curator, in care of this paper.

Editorial

MRS.

We at The Bull feel it is time to bring tradition back to MWC. In keeping with the feminine image that the school has struggled to earn throughout the years, we urge the administration to revive the "MRS" degree program.

In recent years, academic and social programming has turned its back on basic necessities of life. With an increase in co-ed living here at MWC, women can finally focus on what is important in life: waiting on men.

When an MWC man has ring-around-the-collar, he shouldn't have to run across campus to the nearest female dorm. Now, he can go to the next floor, so a lucky female can wash his shirt and perhaps his neck, if need be.

Rather than ordering pizza on the average of four times a week, a male student should be able to eat a homemade meal cooked by one of his female friends.

If a male student discovers on short notice that his parents are coming to visit, a MWC woman should be available to clean his room.

If a button needs sewing on or pants need hemming, MWC guys don't have to wait for the weekend so that Mom can do it. They, again, just run to the nearest female.

We at The Bull support the "MRS" Degree program and say bring Phyllis Schaffly morality back to MWC. (Gloria who?)

Freshman Bitches

To the Bull Staff:

Wow! I'm proud to say I've survived my first year at college. Being a freshman, I can truly say I'm happy this year is almost over. Speaking for the majority of freshmen, we are tired of being ranked on. Whether it be for tradition or good time's sake, I personally get sick of the ridicule aimed at freshmen. Okay, I admit that I lack the maturity level of a sacred UPPERCLASSMAN, but hey, the age difference isn't that great.

Number one item on my hate list is "male abuse." Being that "typical freshman girl," I went through the stage where I thought an MWC male was actually interested in me. Luckily, that off-the-wall phase didn't last long, but it wasn't short enough. Somehow, I fell for the Mary Washington upperclass male's line, "I really like you, wanna' get together later tonight at my place?" Although the variations on this line may be quite creative, the message remains the same.

After knowing a guy for five minutes tops, I have wised up, realizing most MWC men are not interested in that charming personality of yours. Only a freshman girl could get taken for a ride by so many one-minded egotistical men, right? We are gullible on occasion, I confess.

While on the subject of MWC males and their abusive ways...I pose two questions. Ponder the thought, please...Why is it that guys don't dance at the Pub? They just prop themselves up against the railing and eye girls dancing together. I ask these silly questions only with the excuse, "Hey, I have a right to ask stupid questions, I AM only a freshman."

And question number two...Why is it that any form of campus PDA (Public Display of Affection) is limited to only those couples who are planning marriage? I mean, guys here can get pretty friendly behind closed doors, but step outside and you might as well be on brother-sister terms. Maybe next year when I am no longer a freshman will I know the answer to these questions of galactic importance.

Number two freshman complaint—drinking (or lack of, rather). I've partaken in the unpleasurable experience of getting booted from the pub for underaged drinking. I have served my time in Dean Beck's haven discussing the evils of underage drinking and may conclude: Not being able to drink (publicly) stinks!! So we can't consume alcoholic beverages in public places, don't rub it in our faces.

So many social activities seem to outlaw freshmen (like Halloween's when we could only mingle with our other immature freshmen colleagues). I know there is a reason behind this, but I STILL DON'T LIKE IT! A more current event was the Custis Kegger, where underage drinkers, namely freshmen, were discouraged, disinvented, whatever from attending an MWC social activity because of their inability to consume.

Another freshman dilemma which I have first-hand experience with is that good ole "Freshmen 15." With a little help from my friends Mr. Seacobeck, Mr. Itza Pizza and Mr. Milwaukee's Best, I admit to putting away a little extra poundage. But "bigger is better," right guys? I testify that this freshman dorm where I reside keeps Itza Pizza and our basement's Lance machine in business. (Sales tip for any business majors and/or entrepreneurs: Open a 7-11 in the middle of Ball Circle...business would be booming!)

But is this "Freshmen 15" a surprise? While practically every other

See BITCH, page 4.

Senior Finds Employment

by LIRPA SPOOTS

Senior and lame duck associate editor Laura M. Mason called a press conference early this week to inform reporters of her new career plans. It seems that Mason has signed a contract with the popular Solid Gold dancers and will begin "slinking" early this summer.

Mason decided to change her goals for the future when she realized that there really was truth to the old wives' tale that there's not much to do with an English major. "I wanted a career that let me use my body as well as my mind," Mason said. "I think there's too much emphasis on intelligence these days."

The ex-Bullet staff member owes a lot to her editorial position, since she was first discovered because of it. Undercover Solid Gold scouts saw Mason prancing away in the wee hours of the night in the Bullet office to the tunes of Madonna and Cyndi Lauper. "When I saw her moves, I just knew I had to have her," said scout Joe Mancuso. "She's got some of the most slimy, disgusting dance motions I've ever seen...She's perfect!"

Mason will be available to sign autographs on Sunday, April 27 in Framar. Special full-length pictures will be on sale by the Laura Mason Fan Club in Madison Hall.

Laura M. Mason, always on her toes.

The Bull

Editor-in-Chief.....April D. Stoops
Associate Editor.....Donna Craig
News Editor.....Kirsten Brown
Features Editor.....Becky Schiek
Sports Editor.....Kim Lancaster
Photography Editor.....Andrea Adkisson
Production Managers.....Teresa Curtis and Nancy Erps
Business Manager.....Jodi Dogoloff

Production Staff

Chris Mazzatenta and Don Zdanczewicz

The Bull is published every Tuesday during the regular season of the college. The Board of Publications and Broadcasting acts as publisher. The Bull is printed in the offices of the Free Lance Star.

Editorial and business offices are located in Lee Hall, room 303, extension 4393. Deadline for letters to the editor is the Thursday prior to the publication date.

Inquiries may be directed to Box 1115, College Station, Fredericksburg, VA 22402, or to the Editor.

Lame duck Honor Council President Janet Hall was seen with a mysterious, headless senior whose pants were around his ankles.

Save the Rats

To the Editor:

I would like to call to your attention the morbid and sadistic murders of our lovely campus rodents. These friendly creatures once roamed freely throughout our numerous residence halls and were welcome nocturnal visitors to our bedsides. Most were cherished pets and accompanied their owners to Seacobeck where they dined peacefully with other students. They lived quietly among the student body until this past week, when they were cruelly forced from their homes by exterminators. Those who escaped had to seek asylum in wooded areas. Those who were less fortunate were brutally clubbed to death.

A full investigation has been ordered by the Humane Society and Green Peace.

Further outrages such as this will not be tolerated. If the administration tries such an act again, direct action will be taken by the many campus organizations dedicated to the preservation of our wildlife.

Signed,
A distressed reader

ELS Anyone?

To the editor:

I am writing this letter in response to the English Department here at MWC. Something has got to be done about it.

I always wondered something about Dan Dervin. Isn't it a bit uncomfortable to wear socks with toe thongs? And what about the bike he rides? That seat has got to be torture.

What about Ms. Carol Manning? She's a good professor if you can understand the difference between the way she pronounces "all" and "oil." Speaking of accents, Marjorie Collins has a neat one, but her classes are as enlivening as oatmeal. I've also wondered about Sidney

Mitchell and what animals and plants he associates with students in his classes so he can remember their names.

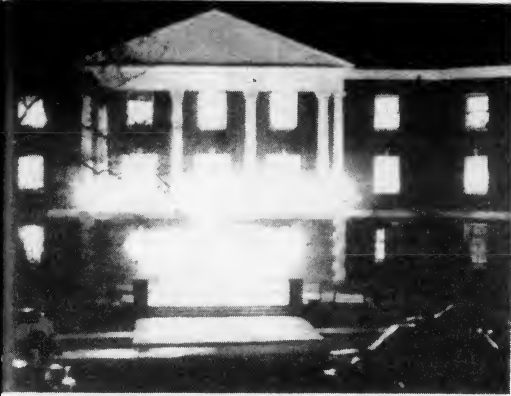

The worst one is Ramen Singh. All the other professors are dying to teach his classes since they hardly ever meet. I say let them; no one ever learns anything in his classes anyway. And, rumor has it that he likes to ask female members of his classes out on less than innocent intentions.

If these people are responsible for the education of today's youth, it's no wonder so many college graduates are unemployed.

Signed,
Sicka English

Grill Ends in a Blast

by YDOBON

Marshall Hall emits radiation after microwave malfunctions.

Bullet Seeks New Financial Sources

by DOKIE ZDANCEWICZ

After falling on hard times and being on the edge of financial ruin this past year, The Bullet has decided to pursue other courses of income. This week The Bullet previews what it hopes to be a profitable future for the paper: its all-new BLACKMAIL SECTION.

Inspired by next year's faculty advisor Dick Palmieri, the BLACKMAIL SECTION will print at least one revealing or embarrassing picture of someone on campus...only the face will not be printed. This individual would be forced to pay an amount of money to be printed. This individual would be forced to pay an amount of money to be determined at a later date. If this is not done, the name of the person, the other students involved, and all the sordid details will be revealed.

Lame duck columnist caught with his pants down.

After microwaving over 500 hamburgers for Marshall's "Grill on the Hill," the dorm's new microwave malfunctioned, sending huge bursts of radiation all over campus.

According to witnesses, people participating in the annual bar-b-q were already too fried to notice anything. The rest of the campus, however, is still experiencing radioactive aftereffects.

The residence hall's director, Joe Mancuso, was quoted as saying, "That's the last time I ever let these kids talk me into anything!"

After five years of fervent petitioning, Marshall finally convinced Mancuso that they needed a microwave oven, and this past week the 600-watt little beauty arrived at the bottom of The Hill.

According to residents, the microwave is incapable of cooking large items such as hotdogs, potatoes, and turkeys, but it does cook a mean bag of popcorn in a record time of only 30 minutes. It will also warm a pop tart in just 15 minutes, and it will melt ice quicker than a conventional oven.

The malfunction occurred when several Marshall residents tried to put two dozen frozen hamburgers into the microwave in order to get them ready to grill. Other residents involved in the cook-out saw this brainstorm of an idea in action and decided to follow their example.

Before anyone knew what was going on, over 500 patties of frozen beef had been thawed, and Marshall's little microwave couldn't handle the pressure. "It just kind of blew up," said one observer. "It was actually pretty neat."

Not many people even noticed the microwave malfunction while it was occurring, though many experienced strange aftereffects the next day, (though no one would comment on them).

In summation, Marshall resident Anne Lewis commented, "I'm glad that little bugger blew up. I think all the radiation made the band sound better."

In Case You Didn't Know...

*Kramer is leaving next year because he got someone in trouble. Guess Who?

*Stephanie I used all her vaseline up this past weekend. Ask her how and why.

*Julio is a closet alcoholic and has a $125 week cocaine habit.

*Leslie likes playing sports that use very long sticks.

*President Anderson was the stunt double for the Stay Fresh Marshmellow Man in the movie "Ghostbusters".

*Michelle is forming her own basketball team, presently she is working on the bench.

*Susan has a pet pig that squeeeellss!!!.

*Gloria Steinem is really a man.

*Y'All, Traci is not really from Northern Virginia.

*The two lovely tans in Marshall Hall are the result of a daily bath in Bronzing Lotion.

*Johnny B's cheek-to-cheek smile is the result of wearing too tight a pair of underwear.

*Only 25 seniors have jobs after graduation.

*Cats don't always land on their feet, sometimes their head, back, and ass.

*Itza Pizza uses cat nip as a special spice in their sauce.

*Karen's best friend is a trash can full of M & M's.

*The biblical meaning of the name "Tina" is Tina Inhales Nicotine All the time.

*Karen Clickener is the sole reason for AT&T's existence.

*Susan Holiday has no eyebrows.

*Michelle wants a little baby named "Manute".

*Mark Hilldrup's sex education class has been closed due a lack of interest.

*R. Singh is here filling the MWC Minority Hiring Quota.

*Today is the tomorrow that you thought of yesterday.

*In order to compete with the Twilight Motel, the Health Center will be leasing out rooms for $5 per hour.

*Harry Skinker's haircut is the product of a little dab of jelly and a little dab of mousse.

*Initials T.G. and L.M. have hips that resemble the continental divide.

*Professor Z's brand of deodorant consists of not taking a shower for 3 days.

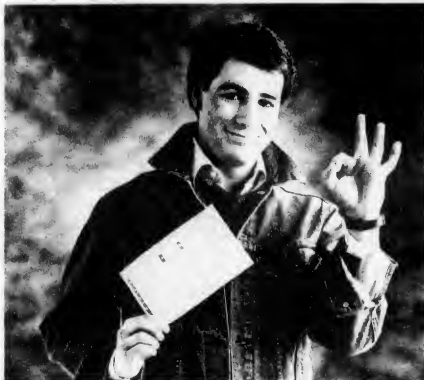

*Speaking of M & M's-did you know that the little deal on each candy will float off when placed its placed in water.

*One pub manager has never had a date on this campus.

*Bruce Loving carries a stadium cup with him at all times because he has a loose bladder.

*Lisa E wears Jams that were once used as table cloths at Pizza Hut.

BE A U.S. REGISTERED MALE

If you're within 30 days of your 21st birthday, you can register with Slim's Select Services at the The Bee Dive. It only takes five minutes for training. And don't worry there hasn't been any AIDS cases since March. The Man just needs your name in case there's ever a run on the clients.

Slim's Select Services.
It's quick. It's easy.
And it's lucrative.

A public service of The Bull.

Classified

FOR SALE

MADISON HALL

Due to the mounting costs associated with recent renovations taken place in Madison Hall and the college's lack of available funds to meet these debts, President Anderson has been forced to place the residence hall on the open market. All bids can be directed to Scott Kaplan, head curator, in care of this paper.

Wrestlemania Hits Campus by Force

by KIM LANCASTER

The MWC Coed Mud Wrestling team hosted its first All-Regional tournament on Saturday, the 19th of April at the newly built mud pit at the Battleground. Participating in the tournament were teams from Lynchburg College, Randolph Macon, Bridgewater and Catholic University.

The team fared very well in the finals competition as strong performances were given by all team members. MWC came out on top taking first and second place in all weight divisions. Coach Raman Singh was excited about his team's victory saying, "When it came right down to it, the team was willing to get down and dirty. They gave all they had and that's all I asked from them. It's a tough sport, one that requires a lot of discipline. Most of these kids didn't have much experience before joining the team, but they all had great potential for success. I worked with each of them individually and encouraged them to practice informally together to get a feel for the sport. This has brought the team closer and morale is high.

My expertise and their talent form a winning combination."

The team members who have consistently given the best performances this season are Bill Myers, Pat McAleer, Mark Flickenger, Kenny Falk, Troy Knighton, Somer Hannack, Morgan Webb, Laura M. Mason and Karen Anderson. Troy Knighton and Laura M. Mason will advance to the National Competition held in Los Angeles in early June.

The team will take on Salisbury State next Saturday at 4:00 p.m. at the Battleground.

1986-87 Mud Wrestling Squad diligently practicing the latest in body contortion.

Horoscope

verbal war.

by SIRHC

ARIES (March 21—April 19) Today is a shitty day for you. Go back to bed and wake up tomorrow.

TAURUS (April 20—May 20) Emotional "storm" subsides—you'll be fulfilled. Go to the pub and pick someone up.

GEMINI (May 21—June 20) Don't bother checking your mailbox—it's empty and you're still unpopular.

CANCER (June 21—August 22) Avoid long distance phone calls which may lead to

LEO (July 23—Aug. 22) Emphasis on results from Marshall Hall's Dating service

VIRGO (Aug. 23—Sept. 22) Emphasize moderation, keep recent resolutions concerning diet nutrition, general health—avoid Seacobeck.

LIBRA (Sept. 23—Oct. 22) Today is your power play day—Sign up to win a Spotsy Mall Gift Certificate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21) Someone wants to "tangle" you in red tape—Let them and enjoy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22—Dec. 21) Domestic changes needed—dump your boyfriend or girlfriend and play around.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22—Jan. 19) Spotlight on money and love—in that order.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20—Feb. 19) Secret revealed to you concerning individual you lust after.

PISCES (Feb. 19—March 20) Emphasis on teaching, intuition, ability to rise above petty differences—walk tall with your nose pointed to the sky.

BITCH, from page 2.

dorm on campus uses their funds to sponsor kegers and other social activities we, on the other hand, have bought new stoves, two microwaves and plenty of pots and pans! We know where to invest our money (since FRESHMEN cannot sponsor kegers—oops, I mean MIXERS). And there's even talk of a dorm pizza party to rid ourselves of the present financial surplus. Wow! You can bet I'll be there...Why not make it "Freshman 50" instead?

Okay, I've made my somewhat disillusioned point. Freshmen are people too, and we deserve to be treated with dignity and respect. I'll keep this in mind when I'm harassing some "immature" freshman next fall).

Sign me,
Older and wiser next year

Movies

Revenge of the Killer Squirrel featuring MWC soccer player Luis Riesco.

Time and place to be announced, so keep those eyes on the lookout.

Seniors: Grad Ball Dates

For the low, low price of only $12, you can attend that once in a lifetime affair, Grad Ball, with the date of your dreams on your arm. Hurry now, supplies are limited.

Send a recent photo, full-length preferable, along with a self-addressed, stamped envelope to:

Get Meadate
P.O. Box 1999
Fredericks, NY 69696

679-2

Available